THEY CRUSH THE POWERS

This is written in mid-October. The long, oppressive summer is quite gone. Fading leaf, withering tree and the rustling corn in the fields are signs of the season. Fog, frost, rain, snow,—they are coming. You remember last winter; of 1900 and 1901. The weather was cruel. Ah! the thousands it killed, and the hundreds of thousands it maimed and crippled. Oh, the rough grasp it laid on men at work, women at home, and children in cribs and cradles. Coughs that began before Thanksgiving Day are racking and tearing them still; yes, and growing worse as they dig deeper into the poor, tired throat and lungs. Many were cured by using Benson's Porous Plasters. For the soothing and healing power of these Plasters is wonderful. They conquer the complaints

THAT ARE KILLING THE PEOPLE.

No other plaster, no other medicine or application, can compare with them. Coughs, colds, backache, rheumatism, lumbago, kidney and liver troubles, asthma, influenza,—they all go down before Benson's Plasters like a snow image in the sun. You can't throw money away on a Benson's Plaster. Everybody is going to use them this season. But make certain you get the genuine. All druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each.

HAROLD CAUGHEN ...AND THE... TRAINED NURSE

By John H. Rafferty

Mrs. Caughen was one of those eminently proper young matrons who put their fingers to their ears when papa says "Gosh!" She was so nice that her husband was afraid to tell her anything about himself, and so a sort of tacit reserve grew up between them which was not conducive to that old fashioned style of domestic felicity which is born of absolute confidence and nurtured by a broad and kindly charity for human frailty.

Mrs. Caughen had no frailties and no children. Mr. Caughen had many frailties, but he assiduously concealed them from his wife, not because he was a natural hypocrite, but because he couldn't bear to shock her high ideals. He was fat and liked colored shirts. She was thin and insisted on buying for him black clothes and linen of immaculate whiteness. She opined that "patterns were undignified for a married man," and he said: "All right, Jane. If you can stand it I can."

She had been to college, and sometimes she asked him whether he never "yearned for the higher opportunities of a professional life?" Being only a moderately successful broker of grain and hay, he did not exactly appreciate her aspirations, but he never gave himself away by arguing the point.

She loathed gambling of all kinds and "belonged" to a lot of societies for the prevention of games of hazard and for the promotion of sure thing enterprises among the young. She regarded it as "vulgar" to show any tense interest in the commercial affairs of her husband, and so, instead of getting "nearer" to him in the old, commonplace way, she gradually trained him into the subconscious belief that his home was a sort of compulsory training school where he ate two meals a day and slept eight or nine hours every night under penalty of being "uplifted" toward the same intellectual plane with Mrs. Caughen.

Of course there had been times during the first two years of his married life when he began to "talk shop" over the dinner table, but his wife showed so little interest in the doings "on the street" and displayed such a frigid hauteur when he talked of his associates "in trade" that the good natured man, who was far from dull, gravitated into a condition of habitual silence which convinced his wife that he was becoming "thoughtful."

She never went near his business office, except once, and that's what this story is about. She had been out buying a cloak, and her choice fell upon one of those "sample" creations.

"The only one in town of that color and fabric," said the saleslady, "and you'd better take it."

Mrs. Caughen being "shy" about $7 pocketed her pride and high sense of propriety and went to her husband's office to get it.

"He's at the telephone just now," said the office boy, pushing out a chair.

She sat down and in the silence of the closed room heard her husband discourse to some unknown friend thus:

"—all right? Sure she's all right! I'm going down there with her. What? * * * The trained nurse, yes. Got that? Well, you can do as you please, but I'm going to risk a few hundred on her. * * * Yes, Sunday night; want to be on the same train, you know. Got to look after her. And say—hello! Hello! Say, old man, keep this dark, will you? It's a dead secret; nobody on but you. Good-by."

When he came out of the telephone box, his wife was gone.

"A lady called while you were in there," said the office boy, "but she said she couldn't wait."

"Who was it?"

"Don't know, sir; never seen her before. Kinda tall, skinny lookin' woman wit' specs. Looked kinda nervous, but dressed swell."

"You weren't down at the office today, were you, Jane?"

"I? The idea!"

That's the way the dinner conversation started that evening. You see, Mrs. Caughen was one of those women who just can't tell a lie.

"I may have to go to St. Louis next Sunday night," said he after a tea pouring pause.

"So?" she watched him as she handed his cup.

"Yes. I hate to go, but it's a case of must. I"—

"Slang again! Harold, dear, why will you interlard your conversation with slang?"

"I expect to make a killing, er—that is to say, I have a deal on"—

Here he got red, coughed, reached out his hand and added:

"Another lump of sugar, please. I expect to make a neat sum in St. Louis if I get there in time Monday morning. Oats, you know. I got a line on twenty carloads of"—

Here the doorbell rang and Mrs. Caughen, with unusual fervor, waved aside the maid and went to the door.

"A new cloak I bought today," she explained when she returned to the table.

But it wasn't. It was a note for Caughen, which she signed for and poked into her deep pocket. When Harold was asleep, she got it out and read:

Dear Old Chunks—I'm off tonight with Madeline. If you can't come on Sunday with the Nurse, send some other good fellow with a bunch of money and plenty of nerve. I seen the Nurse today. She's as plump as an August quail and prettier than ever. She'll like the game better when she sees Madeline is here too. They're used to each other, and if we don't make them St. Louis sports look sick I'll eat your winter underwear. Keep the spiel dark, Chunks, or we'll never land. Yours, GAFFNEY.

If Mrs. Caughen had been like other women she would have made a scene when she read this disgraceful letter, but Jane was above the ordinary weaknesses of woman and scorned scenes. Therefore she said nothing and waited for developments. On Sunday night Harold, as he had threatened, left home for St. Louis. He had hardly gone when she began to pack her trunk and burn the old love letters that Harold (nobody else) had written to her in the old days when she believed in him.

On Wednesday morning she got a letter from him inclosing a draft for $500.

This is part of the profits of my venture. I want you to buy something for yourself. Don't stint yourself. I hope to make three times as much before I'm through. I'll be home as soon as I can break away.

He got home Friday morning. A salutatory ring of the bell brought no answer, and he let himself in with his latchkey. The house had a musty smell as if it had been closed for weeks. The maid was gone. The cockroaches zigzagged across the kitchen floor and the lowered shades gave the rooms a gloomy, almost a sepulchral look. He wandered from room to room, wondering at the clatter of his own footfalls. Pinned to his pillow he found a letter in his wife's handwriting:

Mr. Caughen—or Chunks, if you prefer it—I have left you permanently. The day I called at your office for the first time I was an unwilling auditor of your self conviction. I know all about your escapade with your "trained nurse" and Madeline. I have tried to overlook your natural and evidently unconquerable vulgarity, but your latest adventure merits nothing but the shackles of a felon. I received the $500 which you sent me—as a peace offering, I suppose. As soon as I am settled I shall get a divorce. I despise—

Harold read no further. He grabbed a pen, and with his heart in his fingers wrote:

Dear Jane—For God's sake, pause! Trained Nurse is a horse—that is, a mare. So is Madeline—stable companions, you know. I went to St. Louis to make a killing on her. She was entered in the Mound City Stakes and trained to the hour.

Harold in his excitement was forgetting the injunction against slang.

Gaffney put me next, and I went down there to get the post odds on a good thing. I know you don't like gambling, but this wasn't gambling. It was a sure thing. I cashed for $2,000 on the race. The Nurse won galloping, and the first thing I done [Jane winced when she read that] was to send you five hundred. For God's sake—

But why pry into the private correspondence of a model married couple like the Caughens? She came back when she got ready, but she "kept the change."—Chicago Record-Herald.

He Wanted a Bear.

"The sickest man I ever took into the woods," said an Adirondack guide near North creek, "was a lawyer who came in from Buffalo last fall to kill a bear. He said he was going to kill one if it took all season. He wanted a rug of his own killing for his office. He stayed in the woods three weeks and wouldn't look at deer or small game. Finally he had to go home. He sent his stuff out to the railroad by team and walked out himself, saying that would be his last chance at a bear.

"Sure enough, he went around a big rock and met a bear face to face in the trail. He forgot what he was after, forgot he had been hunting three weeks for this very animal, forgot that he wanted a rug for his office and even forgot that he had a gun. He turned and sprinted in the direction from which he came till it all came over him that that bear was just what he wanted. Then he stopped, went back and saw from the tracks that the bear had gone a good deal faster than he did, and in the opposite direction."

To Speak Distinctly.

A very good way to begin the study of oratory by oneself is to choose several very difficult words and, dividing them into syllables, pronounce each syllable clearly and with the distinct sound of each letter intended to be heard. Pronounce as if with the lips alone. This will bring the tones to the front of the mouth and aid in focusing the sounds of the voice correctly for rich and musical speech, besides which it will establish the habit, if practiced long enough, of giving the full value and, as a consequence, the full meaning of each word spoken to the ear of a listener.

THE POWER OF SONG.

"Baby Mine" Elected Isaac W. Van Schaick to Congress.

Isaac W. Van Schaick, who died in Maryland at the age of eighty-four, was one of the most notable characters that ever claimed Milwaukee as home, and it was from that city that he was twice elected to congress, and he could have gone oftener had he so desired.

"Baby Mine" was the song that elected him the time he ran for congress. In the outer wards of the city—in the thickly populated districts where the Polish voters live—he visited the humble homes and dandled the children on his knee, jollied the mothers and sang "Baby Mine" to the babies. He sang it at public meetings, he sang it on the floor of the chamber of commerce when trading was dull. Everywhere he went he was called upon for his favorite song and never failed to respond.

He began his political life in 1870, when he was elected an alderman, and from that time until 1892 he was prominent in the political life of the city. For any office that "Uncle Van" ran there was sure to be a lively campaign. He could not make a speech on any subject. On the other hand, he was a great "hustler," could beat any one at a house to house canvass. Generous to a fault, one of his strongest plays was the distribution of flour, and he never stopped to inquire how the recipient was going to vote or to what party he belonged. Everybody liked him, and in politics he never knew a Democrat from a Republican. One campaign they were making the tariff question the main issue. If they got into a crowd and the question was asked him how he stood on the tariff, he would turn to John Eldred and say, "I am all right on the tariff, ain't I, John?" and the reply would be, "Yes, certainly, Van; you are always right," and then he would say, "Come on, boys, let's have something."—Chicago Chronicle.

The Fruit Cures.

Of the innumerable "cures" which have from time to time met favor in the eyes of the public the simplest and most agreeable of all is perhaps the "fruit cure."

Fruits are divided into five classes—the astringent, the mealy, the oily, the acid and sweet. Each has an especial value.

The grape is the king cure of all fruits, and is recommended particularly to the consumptive, the anæmic and the dyspeptic; also for gout and all liver complaints.

The prescription in each case is very simple, varying, of course, according to the complaint. To begin with, the patient consumes from a half to a pound and a half of grapes daily, increasing gradually to nine or ten pounds. This diet is to be continued until the patient's health shows a general improvement.

To the sweet fruits a special hygienic virtue is ascribed, particularly to the plum, as a remedy in articular rheumatism or preventive to gout.

The acid class, which includes raspberries, strawberries, peaches, apples, gooseberries, cherries, lemons and oranges, stands at the head of the list. All these fruits are prescribed for stomach troubles.

PATRIOTISM

The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia.

The confirmed dyspeptic "is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils." The man who goes to the front for his country with a weak stomach will be a weak soldier, and a fault finder.

A sound stomach makes for good citizenship as well as for health and happiness.

Diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are promptly and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It builds up the body with sound flesh and solid muscle.

"After I received the advice which you gave me in regard to my treatment," writes Geo. Dorner, Esq., of 1915 Pulaski Street, Baltimore, Maryland, "I used your 'Golden Medical Discovery' according to directions. After using four bottles I considered myself cured, as I have not felt any symptoms since. Had tried almost all remedies that I heard of that were good for dyspepsia, but without relief. Finally, I became discouraged, and wrote to you for advice, with the above result."

The dealer who offers a substitute for the "Discovery" is only seeking to make the little more profit realized on the sale of less meritorious preparations.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the paper covered book, or 31 stamps for the cloth bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

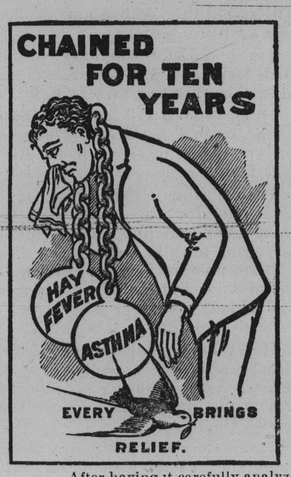
ASTHMA CURE FREE.
Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in all Cases.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL.
WRITE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS PLAINLY.



There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

Rev. Dr. Morris Wechler,
Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel.
NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.
DRS. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.,
Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its compositon alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is wonderful and astonishing.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours,
REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic Asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After taking one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.
Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO. February 5, 1901.
Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make use of as you see fit.

H. H. GRANICE - - - - - - - - - - - - EDITOR

THOMAS P. OWENS, the Lytton Springs murderer, has had his sentence of death commuted by the Governor to life imprisonment on the grounds that he is an insane man.

THE agitation to remove the U. S. Bonded Warehouse from this place to some other locality in the county has about fallen through. With the steady increase of the wine and brandy industry in this valley, which has been picking up steadily the past three years, it is not likely that the warehouse will be removed.

THE U. S. Civil Service Commission will hold examinations at several places in each state, during March and April, to secure young men and women for the government service. 9,889 persons secured positions last year through these examinations. Probably 10,000 appointments will be made this year. All appointments are for life and for most positions only a common school education is required. Salaries at appointment vary from $660 to $1,200 a year with liberal promotions afterward. Politics is not considered. This affords a good opportunity for people between 16 years and 45 years of age. Those desiring places of this kind can get full information about them, free, by writing to the Columbian Correspondence College, Washington, D. C., and asking for its Civil Service Catalogue, number three.

APROPOS to the efforts being made to improve the sanitary condition of the town we publish the following from Table Talk : "Everybody to-day is interested in the perfect sanitation of their homes, and the simplest and cheapest disinfectant, and one that has no odor, is copperas. A physician says that five cents worth of copperas crystals dissolved in water and a portion of it poured down, once a week, each pipe which carries off waste and water will do more for the health of the family than any other one thing. Two pounds of copperas for five cents will make over a gallon of saturate solution. Do not have a garbage pail. Resort to cremation in a quick fire. Vegetable matter, rinds and parings buried in a pit for a year make a valuable, rich, deodized compost which, mixed with one-third sand, is the best soil obtainable for house plants."

THE OBSERVER.

King Edward of England, clothed in gorgeous raiment, will be crowned on the 26th of June. The coronation robes of his majesty will play no small part in the impressive rites attendent upon such occasions and King Edward's crown is to be a magnificent combination of gold, diamonds, pearls, rubies, sapphires and emeralds. Such is the insignia of the highest magistrate in monarchical forms of government. History has accustomed us to such a display. In fact the word king calls to mind gold, embroidery, lace, velvets and jewels of every description. The custom prevails and our twentieth century kings are in this wise no different from those of previous centuries. It is a shallow compliment, however, for in other ways the modern king has been divested of much of his original authority. He may wear the costly robes and the brilliant crown. He may sit in lofty state and carry the sceptre. He may dwell in a castle surrounded by a brilliant cortege of followers, but with all this equipment he is not the absolutist his position may seem to indicate. Modern idea of government has curtailed his rights. He stands for authority. He is nominally the ruler. He adds impressivness to the administration andby virtue of the pagentry that surrounds him he inspires awe and reverence from his subjects. The splendor of his court commands the admiration and respect of other courts. From the social point of view royal display is not without utility. It is neccessitated by the particular form of government under which the King holds sway. Heredity gives to England all her rulers. If it were an absolute certainty that every King or Queen could hold his or her position by virtue of a great personality the pagentry we read of to-day might gradually be done away with. Unfortunately there is no guarantee as to what kind of a monarch will sit on the throne. He may be a weakling in mind or body and have no personal qualifications whatever for the majestic position to which he falls heir. In this case the pomp and splendor of person and court cover up many defects and the man is protected and screened under the irreproachable name of King. If on the other hand the hereditary monarch is possessed of a great personality—if he is a man of great natural endowments—pagentry will not interfere with him in the execution of his duties or the assertion of his personal opinions, and his name will be chronicled not only as a King but a great and wise King. May this be the case with Edward VII.

El Verano Brevities.

James Tate was in town last Saturday evening.

Wm. Chance visited relatives in this place Monday.

Mrs. Ellen Thomas has been visiting friends here the past week.

Daniel Corbin is suffering from a severe attack of la grippe.

Ed. Morris passed through here Sunday on his way to Glen Ellen.

Jo Toroni of Sonoma was in our town one day this week on business.

Frank Ferroggiaro visited friends in San Francisco several days this week.

Peter Castaro has purchased a fine Rambler bicycle from a San Francisco firm.

A large crowd from this place will attend the Doll Show in Sonoma Saturday night.

Frank Willet, the manager of the Bad Man of Glen Ellen, was in town the other day talking fight.

Hugh Chance will leave for San Francisco in a few days, where he has accepted a position in the Risdon Iron Works.

Theo. Skillman visited San Francisco one day this week. While there he sold the fine span of horses belonging to C. F. Carmer.

Rudolph Spreckels has purchased the Malone and Monahan ranches and added them to his already princely holdings in this valley.

Harry Baines has returned from San Francisco after an absence of several weeks. During his sojourn in the metropolis he took in the Grand Opera.

Frank Burris of the Santa Rosa Bank and J. P. McDonell, the well-known young journalist, boarded the train at this place Sunday evening bound for Santa Rosa.

Mr. Jesse Burris, Wm. Kerner, Ranald McDonell and H. H. Granice, the popular proprietor of the INDEX-TRIBUNE, were visitors here last Saturday evening.

Twenty-five or thirty Sonoma people visited the Bellevue Athletic Club rooms last Saturday evening to witness several boxing matches between members of the club.

C. L. Wilson, the young and popular Southern Pacific station agent of Cordelia, who is relieving M. F. Mullen for a few weeks, says this is the prettiest and healthiest valley he has struck in a long time.

The Bellevue Athletic Club is in a flourishing condition. It now has a membership of thirty. The club has drawn the color line and negroes have been barred out. One of the gentry in Glen Ellen, whom your correspondent knows of, can now go way back and sit down.

When the Power is Off What Happens?

Every factory worker and mechanic knows what happens when the power is off. Everything stops. The machinery is idle. If a mechanic were taken into a factory and saw the machinery silent and motionless he'd know at once that the power was off. When you shut off the power from a plant you shut off its activity.

If every factory and mill-hand, every mechanic and workman, understood the mechanism of his body as he understands the machinery of the mill, he would know that when a man is weak and run down, when his activities are slowed down if not altogether stopped, there is something wrong with the power plant of the body.

The power plant of the body includes the stomach and its associated organs of digestion and nutrition. All physical strength is derived from food digested and converted into nutrition. Nutrition is the power which runs the body. When nutrition fails the body fails. The chemical changes by which food is converted into nutrition take place in the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts. When the stomach is diseased, the nutrition is reduced and the body's power is reduced in proportion.

A DOCTOR'S DICTUM.

An eminent physician in a lecture to medical students, said in substance, "When you are called on by a sick person the first examination must be directed to the stomach." Just as the mechanic knows the power's off when the machinery stops, so the physician when he sees a man weak, tired, and helpless, knows the power is off. The food the man eats is not being converted into nutrition. When food is digested, assimilated and converted into nutrition it must strengthen the body. When the body is weak, deficient in vitality and vigor, it must be because it is insufficiently nourished, either from lack of food or because the food eaten is not digested and converted into nutrition. Popularly and generally this condition is described as "weak stomach," or "stomach trouble."

When you have related the weak physical condition to the "weak" stomach and the "run-down" condition to the running down of the machinery in the physical power-house, the next thing to do is to consider how to turn on the power again, restore the vigor and renew the activity.

The best way to explain how to do this is to show how it has been done.

"It is with heart-felt gratitude that I send this testimonial which I wish you to publish with my name and address," writes Mr. Willis Seaman, of Washingtonville, Orange County, N. Y. "I had stomach trouble from birth and suffered with it more or less as I grew up. At the age of 26 I was broken down with dyspepsia. My suffering was terrible. Could not eat without distress. Could only eat a few certain things and was not able to work half the time. Everything I tried only gave me temporary relief. My wife finally persuaded me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' I took six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. I then felt so well that I stopped taking medicine. Several months have passed and I can do the hardest kind of work, can eat anything that is set before me and enjoy it. I am 27 years old and this is the first time I have ever been well."

THE CAUSE FOR CONFIDENCE

in the ability of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to cure "weak" stomach and diseases in general of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition is found in the fact that the worst and most obstinate forms of stomach trouble have yielded to the influence of this great remedy.

"Some time has elapsed since I have written you in regard to the treatment I have been taking under your instructions," says Mr. E. F. Cingmars, of Minneapolis, Minn. "When first I commenced taking your remedies I was under treatment of a well-known specialist in this city (and had been for four months) for catarrh, and especially stomach trouble, and I was rapidly getting worse. Got so bad that I could not eat anything that did not distress me terribly, and I was obliged to quit taking the doctor's treatment entirely. I was greatly reduced in flesh. As a last resort I wrote to you and stated my case, and after receiving your instructions I followed them closely. After taking five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and one vial of his 'Pleasant Pellets,' I commenced to improve, and decided to continue the medicines and observe your instructions regarding hygienic treatment. It is now nearly six months since I commenced your treatment and I can say that I am well and never felt better in my life. Am very grateful to you for what your medicine has done for me."

THIS CAN BE RELIED ON.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It increases the supply of pure rich blood which is the final form of nutrition. It gives strength for weakness, heartiness for heaviness of heart, and puts the whole physical man on the plane of robust health. From a man only able to work half the time, and then in pain, to a man who can work all the time in comfort, is a transition great enough to warrant the oft repeated statement, "I feel like a new man since using the 'Discovery.'"

DO YOU KNOW?

Do you know what to do in case of emergency, accident, or sudden illness? Do you know how to aid the sick while waiting for the doctor? You can learn how to do these and a thousand other things from Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. The book contains more than a thousand large pages and is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the cloth-bound volume, or only twenty-one stamps for the book in paper-covers. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

KICK A DOG

Kick a dog and he bites you. He bites you and you kick him. The more you kick the more he bites and the more he bites the more you kick. Each makes the other worse.

A thin body makes thin blood. Thin blood makes a thin body. Each makes the other worse. If there is going to be a change the help must come from outside.

Scott's Emulsion is the right help. It breaks up such a combination. First it sets the stomach right. Then it enriches the blood. That strengthens the body and it begins to grow new flesh.

A strong body makes rich blood and rich blood makes a strong body. Each makes the other better. This is the way Scott's Emulsion puts the thin body on its feet. Now it can get along by itself. No need of medicine.

This picture represents the Trade Mark of Scott's Emulsion and is on the wrapper of every bottle.

Grocery Sense.

People now-a-days are cautious about what they buy for the table. A modern tendency to cheapen methods of manufacture at the expense of quality has made this caution necessary.

Our old fashioned notion is the most of persons still want quality rather than price in the things they eat—and our brands are packed on that principle—quality first—then price—satisfaction always. Our catalogue tells the rest. Send for it. Complete one, ready.

MORE RAILROAD TALK.

Southern Pacific to Parallel the California Northwestern's Main Line.

The latest talk in railway circles is that the Southern Pacific Company is to parallel the main line of the California Northwestern from McNear's Landing in Marin county to Santa Rosa. This will shorten the Southern Pacific's time between San Francisco and Santa Rosa nearly an hour.

The Call says the surveyors of that company are now in the field with that object in view, and as this surveying party has been seen in the southern part of this valley only a few days ago there must be something in it. Should the change be made the Southern Pacific will become a formidable competitor of the California Northwestern for the passenger and freight traffic of Sonoma county.

The Doll Show.

The Doll Show to night is to be particularly attractive. Hear the young barytone, Edwardo Montgomery of San Francisco, and his clever sister Queen. See the sketch "How One Woman Was Cured of Club Fever." It was written by Miss C. Celeste Granice and will be produced for the first time with the following cast :

Jack Somers.....Geo. L. Bulotti
Mrs. Jack Somers, a member of the Woman's Club.....Miss Granice
Pat Casey, a policeman.....W. O. Hocker
Nora, a maid.....Miss Gordenker

Little Emma and Ed. Gage will appear in catchy fancy dances, and the "Jack-'o Lantern" brigade is sure to make a big hit. Spend 25 cents. All for the sake of our Plaza.

Pio Pianetti is contemplating engaging in the hotel business in Napa, and with that intention in view is negotiating for one of the centrally located hostelries in that town.

A number of members of Sonoma Lodge, No. 28, I. O. O. F., visited Santa Rosa Lodge last Thursday night, the occasion being the conferring of the second degree on six new members of the latter lodge. After the business of the lodge had been transacted the visitors, representing every lodge in the county, were given a banquet. Those present from Sonoma Lodge were Jas. H. Albertson, Fred. Poulson, J. B. Small, Emile Clasquen, Fred. Batto and Peter Bassaglia.

A. J. Snell wanted to attend a party, but was afraid to do so on account of pains in his stomach, which he feared would grow worse. He says, "I was telling my troubles to a lady friend, who said : 'Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy will put you in condition for the party.' I bought a bottle and take pleasure in staring that two does cured me and enabled me to have a good time at the party." Mr. Snell is a resident of Summer Hill, N. Y. This remedy is for sale by F. Duhring. *

An Ancient Foe

To health and happiness is Scrofula—as ugly as ever since time immemorial.

It causes bunches in the neck, disfigures the skin, inflames the mucous membrane, wastes the muscles, weakens the bones, reduces the power of resistance to disease and the capacity for recovery, and develops into consumption.

"A bunch appeared on the left side of my neck. It caused great pain, was lanced, and became a running sore. I went into a general decline. I was persuaded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and when I had taken six bottles my neck was healed, and I have never had any trouble of the kind since." MRS. K. T. SNYDER, Troy, Ohio.

AN ELECTRIC RAILWAY.

The Big Power Company to Gridiron Sonoma County With Electric Car Rails.

General Superintendent Dutcher of the Central California Gas and Electric Power Company was in town several days this week keeping an eagle eye out in the interests of his company. During his sojourn here others did the talking, he the listening. In other words Mr. Dutcher is a very reticent man when it comes to discussing the affairs of the big corporation with which he is identified. It is known, however to a certainty, that his company is contemplating extending its poles through the valley to Kenwood, taking in El Verano, Agua Caliente, Eldridge and Glen Ellen. This will not only give these places an all night electric light service, but undoubtedly an electric railway service in the near future. Every observing person has noted the massive and expensive poles of this company that have been erected from Napa to Sonoma and thence on to Petaluma. That these poles are designed for an electric railway service in the near future hardly admits of a doubt.

The San Francisco Call of the 9th inst. confirms this theory of the ultimate intentions of this wealthy corporation. The Call says :

"The recently incorporated California Gas and Electric Company, with its capitalization of $30,000,000, will absorb the North Pacific Coast railroad, commonly known as the "narrow guage road," and will at once convert it into an electric road. Fast ferry boat service will be supplied, and the residents of San Rafael, Ross station, Mill Valley and other favorite towns, will be given an up-to-date rapid transit, with electric cars or trains of cars running as close together as the patronage will justify.

Papers will be filed within a few days that will insure the control of the railroad by the interests dominant in the new electric light and power corporation. Already a surveying party is in the field, having started from San Rafael, to establish the most practicable lines for the transmission of power from the Yuba and other sources controlled formerly by the Bay Counties Power Company and the California Central Gas and Electric Company, now merged into one and strengthened by the union of Eastern with California capital.

The entire railroad, from Sausalito to San Rafael and San Quentin, from the junction to Mill Valley, and from San Anselmo northward some eighty miles to Cazadero, will be converted into an electric railway.

The first extension of tributary lines, reaching into the territory in which the new corporation controls the power and lighting systems, will be from San Rafael to Petaluma. It is understood that one of the duties of the surveying party now in the field is to make a preliminary survey for such a line.

Some of the leading men among the California stockholders of the new California Gas and Electric Company are among the heavy stockholders of the North Pacific Coast railroad. J. C. Coleman is a director and one of the large stockholders of the railroad, and he has already subscribed $50,000 in the stock of the new corporation.

The California Gas and Electric Company, having absorbed the Bay Counties Power Company and the California Central Gas and Electric Company, has already in operation light and power systems in San Rafael, Petaluma, Santa Rosa, Vallejo, Dixon, Woodland, Nevada City, Grass Valley and many other towns to the north and east of San Francisco bay, and its excursion into the electric railway field, with lines running through the territory in which its power sources and system are located, is a comparatively small undertaking for a corporation with so large a capitalization and so much wealth behind it.."

Chapter of Accidents.

Hon. Robt. Howe of Eden Dale farm met with a painful accident last Tuesday. His large family dog jumped against him in a playful manner, causing him to slip. In an effort to save himself from falling he dislocated his left foot. The injury, which was attended to by Dr. Walliser, will confine him to his home for a week or two.

Peter Gouailhardou, proprietor of the Bellevue Hotel, El Verano, on Friday of last week, fell and broke one of the bones of his right foot. The injured pedal was put in plaster of paris by the attending surgeon and in a short time Mr. Gouailhardou will be stumping around like other people.

Miss Evelyn Waugaman, a student of the High School, was thrown from her bicycle, one day this week, and received injuries which confined her to her home for several days.

Robert Prussia, a High School boy, fell down a flight of stairs in the High School building Wednesday and received injuries, that necessitated the services of a doctor. His physician, Dr. Rich, expects to have him out in a few days.

Changes at the California Home.

Within the past few months several changes have been made and many more are contemplated at the Callfornia Home at Eldridge. The latest change took place last Saturday. At a meeting of the directors held at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, on that day, the resignation of Jesse Burris of this place as Treasurer of the Home was accepted and John P. Overton of Santa Rosa was appointed in his place.

Death of Dr. C. Walliser's Aged Father.

Dr. Carl Walliser of this place has just received the news of the death of his aged father. The old gentleman passed away in Basel, Germany, two weeks ago, leaving a valuable estate which will necessitate the doctor's taking a journey to Germany and Switzerland early next summer to wind up its affairs. Dr. Walliser's father had reached the ripe old age of 85 years when he died.

This club, which is one of the finest appointed in the State, is governed by iron-clad rules. One of these rules prohibits its members shooting on the preserves every day in the week except Sundays and Wednesdays and no birds can be shot at after three o'clock in the afternoon on those days. This allows the ducks to return to their feeding grounds of an evening and prevents their extermination. About half the members of the club, some fifteen in number, enjoyed the sport Wednesday, among them being Secretary Fairchild and ex-President of the club Boulinger.

TWO CURIOUS BIRDS.

The Long Billed Avocet and the Black Necked Stilt.

There are two birds, more or less common in the central part of the United States and abundant in the far west, which occasionally stray eastward to the middle and north Atlantic coast and have been seen on Long Island. These are the American avocet and the black necked stilt, both of them sufficiently striking in appearance to attract immediate attention. The avocet is a slender creature, sixteen to eighteen inches from end of bill to tip of tail. Its wings and shoulders are black, the tail pearl gray. The rest of the plumage is white, changing to a chestnut brown on the neck and head. Such a combination of colors is noticeable enough, but when to this are added extraordinarily long blue legs and a very slender bill, comprising nearly a fourth of the bird's entire length and having a strong upward curve, a most fantastic object results.

Its actions are no less peculiar than its looks. Wading in shallow water, it bends forward so that the curve of the bill touches the bottom, and it swings it back and forth in unison with its advancing steps. The movement suggests a man swinging a scythe, the object being to discover with the very sensitive bill the food which the muddy bottom conceals.

The black necked stilt somewhat resembles the avocet, but its needle-like bill is perfectly straight and is not swung from side to side in walking. The length of its bill has led the western farmers to call it the lawyer. In alighting the stilt is as awkward as a boy just learning to walk on wooden stilts, and it seems to have fully as much difficulty in gaining its equilibrium, stumbling and tottering when it first alights. —New York Times.

A Pair of Them.

Those who have first gazed in dismay and then laughed at their own distorted reflection in a concave or convex mirror will appreciate an amusing occurrence lately witnessed at a menagerie.

Here and there between the cages were placed trick mirrors which reflected a distorted image. An Irishman, after a critical survey of the monkeys, had wandered away from his better half and suddenly found himself in front of one of these mirrors. After a glance at his distorted reflection he rushed back to his wife, who was still watching the antics of the monkeys.

"Come away wid ye, Bridget!" he exclaimed. "Oi've found a bigger trate than that—the ugliest baste in the show! He's in a little cage in the corner."

Bridget followed her husband's lead, and he dragged her in front of the "little cage." To his astonishment there was more in the "cage" than he expected.

"Begorra, Bridget," he exclaimed, "there's a pair av 'em!"—London Tit-Bits.

Strength of a Mule's Tail.

Mr. Howard Saunders in "Across the Andes and Down the Amazon" says he never understood why the vaqueros of Central America when at work lassoing cattle always fastened the end of the lasso round their horse's tail instead of to a ring in the saddle until he saw an accident on a mountain path.

A team of mules passed his party. These mules were tied, the head of one to the tail of that in front, and so on, and as Mr. Howard Saunders passed one of the mules kicked out viciously, missed its footing and went over the precipice. There it hung, scrambling in the vain endeavor to get a footing, while the mules to which it was fastened stood like rocks on the path above till the men succeeded in passing a lasso round the hanging beast and drawing it up. The tail was cut to the bone, but the mule was otherwise unhurt. The incident shows the remarkable strength of the equine tail.

A Daily Task.

To be honest, to be kind, to earn a little and to spend a little less, to make upon the whole a family happier by his presence, to renounce where that shall be necessary and not to be imbittered, to keep a few friends, but these without capitulation; above all, on the same given conditions, to keep friends with himself—here is a task for all that a man has of fortitude and delicacy. —Robert Louis Stevenson.

Stands by Him.

Mrs. Youngwife—How do you always manage to have such delicious beef?

Mrs. Oldwife—I select a good, honest butcher and then stand by him.

Mr. Youngwife—You mean that you give him all your trade?

Mrs. Oldwife—No; I mean that I stand by him while he is cutting the meat.—Recollections of Mrs. Minnie E. Leo.

A Good Cough Medicine.

[From the Gazette, Toowoomba, Australia]

I find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an excellent medicine. I have been suffering from a severe cough for the last two months, and it has effected a cure. I have great pleasure in recommending it.—W. C. Wockner. This is the opinion of one of our oldest and most respected residents, and has been voluntarily given in good faith that others may try the remedy and be benefited, as was Mr. Wockner. This remedy is sold by F. Duhring.

Do you want a brand new Wheeler & Wilson $75 Sewing Machine that has never been used. If so apply at this office. This machine will be warranted and sold cheap on the installment plan. *

For Sale—A $50 life scholarship in Ayers' Business College, San Francisco, will be sold at a sacrifice. This is the best Business College on the Pacific Coast. Apply at this office.

Drying preparations simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c. size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N.Y.

The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation.

With Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against Nasal Catarrh and Hay Fever.

COUGHS AND COLDS IN CHILDREN.

Recommendation of a Well Known Chicago Physician.

I use and prescribe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for almost all obstinate, constricted coughs, with direct results. I prescribe it to children of all ages. I am glad to recommend it to all in need and seeking relief from colds and coughs and bronchial afflictions. It is non-narcotic and safe in the hands of the most unprofessional. A universal panacea for all mankind.—Mrs. Mary R. Melendy, M. D., Ph. D., Chicago, Ill. This remedy is for sale by F. Duhring. *

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

BALTIMORE, Md., March 30, 1901.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours, F. A. WERMAN, 730 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.

Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.
